nother week of hell sees Sinead turn to an unlikely confidant as she faces a terrible choice about the future of her pregnancy – former arch-enemy Ken.

The Barlow patriarch finds poor Sinead in a terrible state, and she ends up blurting out the heartbreaking truth. This shocking moment comes after Sinead is suspended from work for taking a phone call to get her biopsy results. With her life in turmoil, and Daniel still blissfully unaware, Sinead needs a shoulder to cry on.

"Sinead's tragic news hits Ken like a ton of bricks," whispers our Weatherfield insider. "He's devastated to hear that she's so ill, and the implications cervical cancer will have on the baby she and Daniel are expecting.

They've been at odds in the past, but now Ken just wants to support Sinead however he can. What she's facing is hell on earth."

Life at Underworld is proving tough for Sinead, and it's not just the morning sickness that's driving her mad. She's become a target for disruptive Vicky, who is winding her up in order to get at Peter (see p16). After a mobile phone ban is implemented by the fed-up fella, Sinead is forced to break the rules to take a call from the hospital. Vicky tries to snatch the banned device from her hand, and Sinead sees red!

"Quite understandably, Sinead goes nuclear – all the pain and fury she's been feeling bursts out," shares our mole. "Neither Vicky nor Peter knows why that phone call was so important, and Sinead doesn't want to tell them. The truth is that she needs to go and see the doctor following the results from her biopsy."

While Sinead's life is spiralling, new husband Daniel receives the news he's been waiting for – he's been offered a place to study for a Masters degree. However, on talking it over with Ken, he admits that the timing is all wrong, and he probably should turn it down. When Sinead hears this, she's saddened and tells him to go for it anyway, no matter what. But while Daniel's full of joy at the thought of a baby and a new course, Sinead is still burying the terrible truth.

Later, at the hospital, the consultant sadly confirms the cervical cancer diagnosis and tells Sinead that she needs to consider the possibility of a termination. Devastated and alone, Sinead goes home and breaks down, only for Ken to find her. As she relays her news, she explains that she doesn't want Daniel to have to choose between her and the baby, so Ken must promise to keep the secret. Will he agree, or is it time Sinead broke the awful news to her husband?

GREETINGS FROM CANADA!

Sinead's real-life alter ego has been away...

While Sinead has been having a nightmare, actress Katie McGlynn has been living the dream in Canada! She's been visiting the country alongside on-screen auntie Lisa George (aka Beth) to meet and greet the Street's devoted Canadian fans.

The duo's whistle-stop tour included shows in Winnipeg, Kelowna, Calgary, Red Deer and Edmonton. One cheeky fan showed Lisa a tattoo of her on-screen BFF Tracy Barlow positioned on her backside. Now that's what we call a serious tribute!

rantic Victoria finds herself in big trouble this week – when the private investigator looking for Adam attacks her.

She hires PI Glen to track down her missing husband, having finally discovered that he didn't kill evil Emma Barton. Victoria doesn't care what it costs to find Adam, all she wants is a reunion with the man she loves. However, Victoria soon finds herself in a very dangerous situation...

"It's panic stations for Victoria!" admits Isabel Hodgins, who plays the desperate wife. "It's all a bit sinister. Victoria thinks, 'Oh no, I'm alone with this guy who's not very nice. He's a lot bigger than me, so he can definitely overpower me or cause me some damage!" Following Moira's confession that she killed Emma and Adam took the rap for her, Victoria is in a bad place. She's willing to do anything to find Adam, and can't believe that everyone around her has lied. Alone and isolated, she begins her search at the haulage Victoria finds herself in the middle of nowhere with this sinister guy!" office, where she trashes the place trying to get some intel. What's her state of mind?

"She has no one to trust – not even her brother because of his relationship with Aaron, Matty and Moria," explains Isabel. "She feels really lonely. The one person that she wants to speak to is her husband, who is on the run and accused of murder. So, it's a very tricky time for her."

Although Robert promises
Vic that nobody knows where

Adam is, she doesn't believe him. Throwing money at the problem, she hires Glen, who reports back to her that Adam is in Portugal. Meanwhile, Matty discovers that Adam isn't in Portugal at all – so he takes the money from her bag, to stop her from being swindled. Sadly, Matty's actions have put Victoria in a deadly position...

"When Glen says, 'Pay me £5,000, and I'll tell you where your husband is', it's a no-brainer for Victoria," explains Isabel. "But then she realises that the money is gone! The trouble is, Glen isn't a real PI, and now she's completely on her own in the middle of nowhere with this guy. It's just gone from bad to worse!"

And Isabel reckons there's more pain ahead for Victoria.

"She's been betrayed by her loved ones," she muses. "Victoria is making some bad decisions, but she's not really thinking about herself. Nobody thinks all that rationally when their heart is broken."

ADAM'S NOT HAPPY!

He might be incognito in the show, but in real life Adam Thomas - aka Adam Barton - has had some choice words for his screen missus. Fun-loving Adam took to Twitter on the night of Victoria's first kiss with Matty to make his displeasure known by tweeting, 'Noooooooo' and 'Bitch'! It seems as if Adam has some unfinished business in the Dales - but we'd like to see Vic and Matty in a serious relationship before Adam returns. Imagine the fireworks when the brothers come face to face!

UNABLE TO COPE WITH HER IMPENDING MOTHERHOOD, WILL SHE END HER OWN LIFE?

ortured Hayley is pushed to the edge this week – the edge of a tower block balcony! Will she jump off to try to escape her pain?

It's been clear for a long while now that the mum-to-be is struggling to cope with the idea of giving birth to her first child. But as she contemplates her bleak future, Hayley's pain becomes too much to bear.

"The one person who Hayley has come to trust and rely on is Jean," our Walford insider reminds us. "The kindly woman has tried her best to prepare Hayley for her impending motherhood, and in a bid to encourage her, she makes a list of things that need to be bought before the baby arrives. However, on seeing the daunting catalogue of items, Hayley panics!"

Help is at hand, though, as Mariam comes to Hayley's rescue and tries to reassure her neighbour. The pair strike up an unlikely friendship, and after Hayley spends time with Mariam's foster child, little Harley, her confidence starts to grow. Sadly, Hayley's anxieties have only been temporarily alleviated, as when Mariam mentions that she fostered a child with foetal alcohol syndrome, Hayley snaps and walks out.

"Hayley is still drinking heavily," laments our snitch. "Of course, she knows that she shouldn't, but she thinks it helps her to cope with her stress. Poor Hayley is trapped in a constant cycle of depression, drink and guilt – and unless she can find the strength to change her could be at serious risk."

Spotting Keanu in the Square, Hayley persuades him to hang out with her in the park. However, he is appalled and disgusted when he sees her drinking. He angrily tears her off a strip, before realising she needs some support.

"Hayley doesn't know how to ask anyone for help, so she's reaching out in whatever way she can," reckons our mole. "She subconsciously wants Keanu to witness her drinking, so he can intervene. But will he understand just how vulnerable she is?"

Later, back in Albert Square, the other Slaters are growing increasingly concerned for the whereabouts of their pregnant relative. When Keanu turns up and tells them that when he last saw her she was heading 'home', Jean is alarmed, realising what this might mean.

Deeply worried Kat and Jean race to an abandoned block of flats, and are utterly horrified to see Hayley sitting high above the ground, on the very edge of one of the balconies. Will the pair manage to get through to her, or are they already too late?

Tom Spilsbury

HAS JEAN GUESSED THE TRUTH?

She reckons she knows the identity of the baby's father...

Hayley's anguish has been heightened by the fact that she's been keeping a shameful secret about the father of her unborn baby from the rest of her family it's Kat's estranged husband, Alfie Moon!

When Hayley tries to open up to Jean about her boozing, the older woman attempts to offer her some reassurance. However, as Hayley begins talking about how she started drinking heavily while she was in Spain, Jean's suspicions are aroused about the identity of the baby's father. Jean tries to probe the matter further, though her pointed questions only result in Hayley walking out.

However, as Jean and Kat rush to the tower block to try to prevent the young woman from making a truly terrible mistake, Jean is certain that she has worked out who the mystery man is.

Has she guessed correctly? And if so, will she resolve to tell Kat of her shocking theory?

CORONATION STREET

WHAT NEXT IN WEATHERFIELD

New Corrie boss lain MacLeod lifts the lid on his plans for the Street...

t's been all change at the top for the ITV soaps recently, with former Emmerdale chief lain MacLeod hopping across the Pennines to take charge of Corrie. Iain's work will be seen on screen from December, and he gives *Inside*Soap a sneaky peek into the future...

Hi, Iain! What are your plans for Corrie for the months ahead?

Corrie always needs to have big material in it, and it's at its best when there's comedy, too. My background in Corrie [Iain was story producer from 2009 to 2013] is that I like the funny stuff – but equally, I've worked on the tram crash, Tyrone and Kirsty's domestic violence, Carla's rape and Peter's alcoholism. The key is to achieve a balance.

Did you agree with some of the criticism that Corrie has become too dark in recent times?

Kate [Oates, Corrie's previous boss] is a friend of mine and during her time on this show, told some massively socially important stories that changed people's lives. That's not perhaps the reason people tune into Coronation Street, but it shouldn't be sniffed at and the viewing figures speak for themselves. There's a risk that we have this nostalgic view that Corrie has traditionally been people wittering over the fence when, actually, it's always been quite challenging.

Who can we expect to see at the heart of the drama? We hear that the Barlows have quite a lot coming up...

Our story conferences have been brimming with ideas for a whole range of characters and age ranges. In the New Year we have a massive story that plays to some of our older cast, but equally we have huge new chapters for Daniel and Sinead, at the younger end of the spectrum. We have a big story for Amy Barlow, and some funny stuff for Ken!

What can you tease about Christmas?

I want it to be a 'Christmassy' Christmas, as opposed to acrimony, divorce papers and vitriol. When you're trying to digest your sprouts, you need the stories to be warm and light-hearted, and you need it to reek of Christmas. So, it'll have some heartbreaking plots, a big shock at the end and hopefully a surprising pay-off to stories you're seeing on screen now.

Is there a friendly rivalry between you and Kate Oates now that she's joining EastEnders?

I've already sent her a message, jokingly saying, "The gloves are off"!
There's a healthy rivalry between EastEnders and Corrie – but we plough our own furrow. There's room in people's lives for both!

ina's forbidden feelings for Tim propel her on a mission to find a man of her own but it looks set to end in disaster!

Our paparazzi pictures show Sally's sister meeting a new fella, Dave, who arrives for their date with a bouquet of flowers. However, dodgy Dave will soon show his true colours when it transpires that he's only after one thing...

"Gina makes it clear that she isn't interested - but Dave refuses to take no for an answer," reports our Corrie source. "He grabs Gina when she tries to walk away, so she knees him in the goolies!"

As Gina puts up a strong fight, will she manage to escape the scary situation unscathed? And will the experience prompt her to swear off other men in favour of pining after Tim?

Ray's secrets look set to unravel...

t seems as if determined Mel will turn the tables on sneaky undercover cop Ray - and do some investigating of her own!

Our sneaky snaps show star Tamzin Outhwaite, who plays Mel, filming on location for scenes that will see her knocking on the door of a woman and presenting her with Ray's police warrant card. But what is she fishing for?

"It's no secret Mel is already suspicious of Ray and has even enlisted the help of her ex, Jack, to dig for dirt on him," reiterates our Walford insider. "However, by the look of these pictures she is on a mission - and receives more than she bargains for!"

Viewers witnessed Ray's flirtation with a woman in E20 recently – and in these scenes, Mel appears to be accompanied by a brunette as she arrives on the doorstep of a blonde lady. Will it transpire that Ray is not a one-woman man?

ourageous Sarah gets the news she's been dreading and longing for this week – a new heart has been found, and the surgeons are ready to operate.

Following the madness of her mum and Joe's wedding day, Sarah hasn't been thinking about herself much recently, so the announcement comes as a shock. Although she knows it's the only way to save her life, Sarah goes into a total panic when the transplant co-ordinator tells her to prepare for the operation. This is the moment that will change her life forever.

"Sarah's almost too scared to believe it, especially after what happened before, when the operation was cancelled at the last minute," explains our Dales insider. "She knows that she could die on the operating table and that the transplant is risky. For somebody so young, she's been through too much in her life. But Sarah's a Dingle – and Dingles are fighters."

Debbie is beside herself when she arrives at the hospital, knowing it could be the last time she sees her beloved daughter alive. It's more than she can bear as Sarah is wheeled into theatre and the long wait begins. Debbie is convinced that this could be their goodbye, and the pain of what's ahead hits her like a ton of bricks. Worse still, following Sarah knows she could die on the operating table – it's so risky..." the op, the doctors are unable to tell the family if the transplant has worked or not, leaving them in a world of torment.

"Faith and Charity are there to support Sarah and Debbie, but they feel utterly helpless," reveals our spy. "They are two of the toughest women in the village, but they are powerless to do anything and are lost for words. Although they are praying for good news, both of them are natural cynics and their glances of concern prove just how terrified they are. Losing Sarah would destroy the whole family."

BIG DADDY!

It's incredible to think that Sarah is going through this ordeal without her dad Andy by her side. Sadly, he's been AWOL since going on the run back in 2016, and it doesn't look as if he'll be back any time soon!

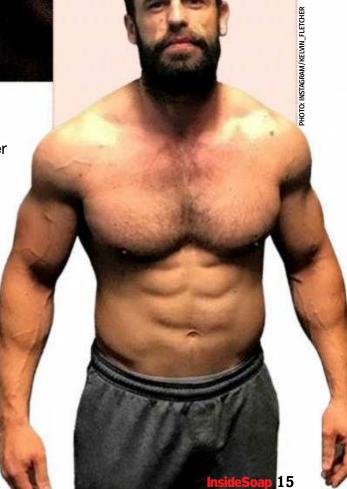

Andy was framed by his vengeful ex, Chrissie White, who planted the gun her son Lachlan used to shoot and almost kill his grandad, Lawrence. Andy was forced to abandon his kids and true love Bernice, leaving a trail of broken hearts in his wake.

In the real world, Andy's exit happened after actor Kelvin Fletcher decided to pursue other interests – such as spending a lot of time pumping iron, apparently, as Kelvin is now sporting a six-pack and guns that The Rock would be proud of!

So, will we soon see an even-buffer Andy back in the Dales? It doesn't seem likely... "While Emmerdale is in my DNA, it's exciting doing different things," said Kelvin recently. Boo!

With the operation complete, all they can do is wait to see whether the heart transplant has worked and if Sarah recovers. She's come a long way to get to this stage, and Sarah has proved time and again that her condition won't beat her. Will she and Debbie have cause for celebration, or are the Dingles about to deal with another tragic loss?

eter has had enough of troublesome Vicky this week, and fires her!
However, as she's the mum of teen thug Tyler, will his decision cause trouble for his son, Simon?

Tensions come to a head at the knicker factory after Vicky delights in winding up all the other girls who work there. Although Peter is annoyed by the woman's antics, he is initially forced to bite his tongue, fearing the repercussions for his boy if he makes an example of her.

"Peter never wanted to hire Vicky in the first place," our Weatherfield insider reminds us. "He felt forced into it by Carla! Eventually he decided that it was a case of 'better the devil you know', figuring that at least he could keep an eye on her. But his patience is starting to wear thin, especially now that Vicky is upsetting his staff! He's caught between a rock and a hard place."

Tensions boil over, though, when Vicky starts goading Sinead – resulting in Peter introducing a ban on all mobile phones in the factory. Sadly, it's a decision that causes bigger problems. After the hospital calls Sinead (see p4 for more), Vicky tries to grab her phone, and reports her rule-breaking to Peter!

Although she agreed to go to a clinic to be examined following the night she spent with Martin's friends Ross and Matt, Ruby has refused to get the authorities involved. She just wants to move on from the whole situation, but Stacey is determined that justice must be done and helps Ruby get ready to speak her truth.

"What happened to Ruby has rocked her world, and she's struggling to cope," explains our Walford insider. "She's terrified nobody will believe her and is questioning everything. Having Stacey by her side means everything to Ruby, especially as the men she will be accusing are Martin's pals. Walking into that police station takes all her strength, but it's the right thing to do."

Following that terrible night, Martin and Stacey are at loggerheads. She's standing by Ruby and is livid that her friend is being trolled online, telling Martin that this abuse must be from his friends. For him, it's tough to believe the boys could be capable of rape, and he's even more shaken

When Stacey finds her, she recognises the deep trauma Ruby is experiencing, and tells her friend about the attack she herself was subjected to by evil rapist Archie Mitchell. Stacey's harrowing story gives Ruby the wake-up call she needs.

Following Ruby's police report, the officers ask Stacey question marks around what Stacey's mate is saying, and the whole situation still seems dangerously unclear. He's worried that his mates could be innocent, and Ruby might be misremembering the details of what happened."

How to help a victim of sexual assault

With Martin and Stacey wondering how best to help Ruby, charity Rape Crisis - which is advising EastEnders on this storyline – says: "Supporting a survivor of sexual violence can be daunting; many people are afraid of saying or doing 'the wrong thing', or of 'damaging' someone further because they 'don't know enough'. But you don't have to be an expert. If you are prepared to listen, the survivor who has confided in you will be able to guide you in what they need."

On the charity's website www.rapecrisis.org.uk in the Getting Help section, it lists dos and don'ts for people who are supporting a survivor. If you, or anyone you know, needs help and advice, you can call the Rape Crisis helpline on Freephone 0808 802 9999 from midday to 2.30pm or 7-9.30pm, every day of the year.

of all the men in her life, and I think she needs that attention and love," muses actress Louisa Clein, who plays her. "But I think that she's probably not aware at this stage that Jacob has started to develop feelings for her."

Jacob's true emotions reveal themselves following an incident involving Noah that lands Maya in hot water with Jessie. When teacher Maya offers Noah an unarranged lift to school, the headmistress is forced to reprimand her for breaking school safeguarding rules. But Jacob doesn't take too kindly to Maya receiving a dressing-down, and takes his frustrations out on Noah – resulting in a scuffle between the two boys at the bus stop.

Meanwhile, after the drama that stemmed from her shock return to the village, Jacob's birth mother Leyla persuades Maya that David really does care for her. The pair resolve to put their recent troubles behind them, with Maya agreeing to move back in with David.

But while he and Jacob are over the moon, Leanna isn't too pleased, and angrily confronts her stepmum – prompting Jacob to intervene and defend her honour again.

"Maya's pleased when Jacob leaps to her defence," shares Louisa. "As far as Maya is concerned, she has moved back in with the man she really likes, and suddenly the stepson is accepting her into his world and it all looks very good. She's gone from a really destructive relationship with Dr Cavanagh and a really angry stepdaughter – who did everything she could to cause trouble for her – to a reality that is much happier."

However, as Maya cuddles up to David on the sofa for a cosy night in, it dawns on Jacob that he fancies his dad's girlfriend. But will Jacob be so bold as to act on it?

Maya enjoys the adoration of all the men in her life – she needs the love and attention!"

"People think Maya is the big new bitch!"

aya is still a bit of a mystery – and with Dr Cavanagh and Leanna not her biggest fans, we just had to ask Louisa if there is more to learn about the tousled temptress...

Is there a chance that Maya might end up entertaining Jacob's crush?

There is a lot still to explore with this character. Maya hints later on down the line that she has slightly dysfunctional parents, or certainly a mother figure that is lacking – which has created more of a desire in Maya to be adored and needed. There are things in her past that have created the person she is now.

Are you enjoying the various theories that Maya is bad news?

Of course! As an actress it's always fun to play a character that is ambiguous, and I like that people are having these ideas. It means that they are investing in the character and taking an interest. Whether they like her or don't like her doesn't matter – it's always nice to provoke opinion in one's audience.

What has been your favourite prediction so far?

There has been some brilliant speculation that Maya is the new bitch to face up to Charity! I'd love the opportunity to work with Emma Atkins, who plays her.

Matthew Wolfenden (David) hinted recently that a huge story was coming up for you both. Were you excited when you found out what it was?

Absolutely. It's always interesting to play a strong woman who has a complex story, for sure. I think that the viewers are going to have a big reaction to Maya. She is going to prompt discussion!

ot returns from her trip to Ireland this week, but there are soon grave concerns over her health. So, wary of the advice she gets from her local GP, Dot goes to visit the one man she trusts – Dr Legg!

Having being away from Albert Square visiting her grandson Charlie and greatgrandson Matthew, Dot's homecoming is a cause of celebration among her family and friends. However, Sonia is soon feeling anxious about Dot's wellbeing. Sensing that something might be wrong, Sonia asks Dot straight out, and the older woman admits that she's been having some funny turns. After giving her a superficial check-up, Sonia advises Dot to make an appointment with a doctor.

"Dot has always been a bit stubborn," chuckles our Walford mole. "However, she knows that Sonia won't stop worrying until she gets herself checked out properly. Once she's sitting alone in the doctors' waiting room, though, viewers will be able to see that Dot is extremely apprehensive herself. Is there something she's not telling everyone?"

After Dot is safely back home, Jack stops by to check in on his stepmother. Sensing her unease, he quizzes her on what's troubling her so much, and she makes a startling confession...

"Just like everyone else in Albert Square, Jack is so fond of dear old Dot," sniffs our snitch. "She's 83 years old now, but she lives her life like a woman several decades younger. After she discusses her fears, Jack gently persuades her to go and seek further advice from another doctor. Dot isn't at all convinced, until she has an idea about who she can talk to. Filled with renewed hope, she heads out to visit one of her oldest and most trusted friends – Harold Legg!" When Dot arrives at Dr Legg's home, she's overjoyed to see him again – and the retired practitioner couldn't be happier to see her too. After telling him of her worries, he does his best to reassure her, and the pair are soon reminiscing over old times.

Dot then invites him to join her back in the Square for Robbie's birthday party. He eagerly agrees, but he has some shocking news for her...

"Viewers will love seeing these emotional scenes between these two Walford icons," promises our insider. "Dr Legg and Dot both first appeared in EastEnders in 1985, way back in the earliest episodes – and stars Leonard Fenton and June Brown roll back all those years as well. It's going to be something very special indeed."

Tom Spilsbury

Dr Harold Legg was one of the original 23 characters created for EastEnders, and appeared in the very first episode on 19 February 1985 – remaining on the show for the first 12 years.

Family issues!

As Walford's GP, Harold was often called on to treat the Square's residents. In 1988, he was joined by his nephew, David, who became a partner in the practice. However, the two doctors constantly clashed – and the tension between them reached boiling point when Harold failed to diagnose Michelle Fowler's daughter Vicki with meningitis!

Doctor's orders!

Disillusioned in his own abilities, Dr Legg took early retirement. But after David's methods proved unpopular with the locals, his uncle was eventually persuaded to return to work. Dr Legg retired for good in February 1997, though has returned to EastEnders on several occasions, most recently in 2007, when Dot last called upon her dear friend.

Bernice's pulse is racing...

...AS SHE GETS A DOSE OF DR CAVANAGH'S

aughty Bernice receives a house call from hunky Dr Cavanagh this week, and the lusty pair can't resist their feelings for each other.

Despite the fact that she still hasn't ditched Daz, Bernice finds herself in a compromising position when the smitten medic tends to her wounds after she gets too close for comfort with the pointy end of a dart. But as the doctor checks her over, Bernice finishes up in a swoon.

"Pulling a handsome, successful doctor is Bernice's dream, so it's a mystery as to why she can't dump Daz," says our Dales snitch. "Liam has been very patient so far, though surely he's at the end of his tether with Bernice's dilly-dallying. All she has to do is give Daz his marching orders, and then she and Dr C can be together."

There's no doubt it's a bit complicated – what with Daz, Bernice, Liam, his estranged wife Maya and her new fella David all in the same village. And Bernice is making it harder by not letting go of Daz.

So this week, she tells him that he has to move out and back in with Kerry and his brother Dan – because her mum Diane wants him gone. There's no love lost between Tyler back in Erinsborough?

CASSIUS HAS BEEN CHARGED - SO TYLER IS FREE!

yler makes a shock return to Ramsay Street this week, following his release from jail – but how will he react when he comes face to face with his old flame Piper?

The last we saw of Tyler, he was cutting off all connections to Piper after his charges were upgraded to murder.
However, now that he's been released, it's not clear if his feelings will be the same – or how Piper will feel about her former lover being back in her life.

"Piper will always have a soft spot for Tyler," explains Mavournee Hazel, who plays her. "She's nervous to see him, because she feels guilty about moving on, despite him telling her to do so. When they meet, their intent is to work it out – but prison has changed Tyler."

After Tyler leaves jail, and Mark explains what happened between Cassius and Piper, Tyler refuses to see her. Piper decides to stay away – yet Bea encourages her to see him. So can they really leave the past behind and look to the future?

Regardless, Mavournee tells us how difficult it was to keep Tyler's surprise return under wraps – the scenes were filmed months ago to fit in with actor Travis Burns (Tyler) returning to Melbourne for a short time.

"I was out on location with Travis, filming the scenes where he's coming out of jail – then that afternoon, I was in the studio filming my first date scene with Cassius!" she reveals. "When Piper and Tyler were doing the rooftop and the courtroom scenes, we had no idea Travis would be back. I thought that was the end of him being on Neighbours!"

between them is simply undeniable. Soon, the lusty medic is using some unconventional methods to treat Bernice's dart injury. The problem is that Daz is on his way to see his ailing girlfriend, and even he might think that using mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is going OTT for a scratched foot!"

The last time Daz had an inkling that Liam had his eye on Bernice, he grabbed him by the throat and threatened to beat him up. That was his reaction to seeing his girlfriend calling Dr Cavanagh's phone, so imagine what he'll do if he spies the duo in a passionate embrace! One thing's for sure – Bernice needs to get on with dumping Daz if she wants any future with the man she actually fancies.

But will Daz be willing to move on without taking revenge on the pair?

NO ORDINARY JOE

I'm so disappointed in Joe from Emmerdale right now. I know he's always been a snake in the grass, but I thought he at least had some loyalty to Graham – so I was devastated when he sold him out to hit man Connor! I realise he and Graham have had their problems, yet I never reckoned Joe would turn on his best friend like that.

🔋 | Julia, Manchester

Joe did come good in the end although it was probably too little, too late in Graham's eyes.

MAGS TO RICHES

I love, love, love Ben and Maggie in Home and Away! There's something about their relationship

Ben and Maggie might be my favourite characters in the Bay!

RY AND DRY

The whole Cormac death storyline in Corrie was a little far-fetched! Ryan is a complete moron, he just keeps messing up, and he's never going to learn his lesson if Michelle keep fixing his mistakes.

Annabelle I totally agree, Annabelle – I'm 'Team Dr Ali' all the way!

CHAS & PADDY'S HEARTBREAK

Watching Emmerdale's Chas and Paddy welcome their daughter Grace into the world, knowing the girl would only live for a short time, was one of the most tear-jerking moments in soap this year...

I would like to applaud Lucy Pargeter (Chas) and Dominic Brunt (Paddy) – I cried from the first minute to the last. I loved their imaginary fairy tale, taking Grace to the woods, where time flashed forward and they watched her grow to a teenager before her life was cut short back in real time. It was so beautifully written. It'll take a long time for Chas and Paddy to recover.

Louise, Leicester

I cried my eyes out watching Chas and Paddy say hello, and then a swift goodbye, to their gorgeous little girl Grace. I had never even heard of the condition she had before Emmerdale played out this story, and it made me think about how I would react if I was in Chas and Paddy's position. I think they were right to treasure what little time they had with Grace.

Shona

The scenes involving Paddy, Chas and Grace were utterly heart-wrenching, but I think watching their grief play out over the coming weeks will be just as important. There will be many people watching at home who have lost a baby – maybe not in the same circumstances, yet it's not just something you get over and move on from quickly.

"Keanu is madly in love with Sharon — he's smitten!"

As Sharon and his alter ego battle with their feelings, Danny Walters tells us why he believes in the power of love...

The more Sharon and Keanu try to resist one another, the more they end up falling back into each other's arms..." sighs Danny Walters, who plays Keanu, as he joins us for a chat before starting work. It's a classic tale of forbidden passion for Walford's hottest couple, whose unexpected romance has been going down a storm with delighted viewers. However, while the countdown's on for a corking face-off, should Phil find out that his wife has fallen hook, line and sinker for a much younger bloke, Danny reckons Keanu is currently too besotted to care...

The connection between Sharon and Keanu is sizzling, Danny! But when you found out Keanu and Sharon would be getting it on, how do you prepare for that?

Well, I just had to embrace it! Working with Letitia Dean [aka Sharon] has given me the opportunity to learn a lot – but it's also meant that we've been able to make an amazing storyline together. I knew Letitia and I would create great chemistry on camera – and we have!

How did you feel about the story when you first heard about it?

I felt very lucky to have such a great storyline with such a great cast member. The more we've delved into it, the more we're finding out why Keanu and Sharon make such a good match.

What's it been like to work so closely with Letitia?

We'd only had the odd scene together before, so this was my first opportunity to get to know her better. As the scenes have got more intimate, we've grown as friends, and that's really important, to have that trust between fellow actors. We're great friends now, and that helps for any worries or anxieties we might have. She knows what she's doing, and we're both feeling really comfortable.

Is it true love between them?

Keanu is madly in love with Sharon! Whether or not he's got his head in work with her – he sees her as someone who's a potential partner. He's smitten!

the clouds, he wants to make his life

What is it about Sharon that Keanu has fallen for?

He sees how beautiful she is, and she brings out his positive side. Keanu is a grafter, he provides for the family, but where everyone kind of takes him for granted, Sharon gives him that attention. And vice versa – Sharon is missing something in her own relationship that Keanu is providing, and there's a real connection there.

Are you looking forward to a showdown between Keanu and Phil, should he find out?

Working with Steve McFadden [who plays Phil] is amazing, so anything I get to do with him, whether it's small or big, passive or massively dramatic, I'm willing to embrace it all!

"Keanu sees how beautiful Sharon is — she brings out his positive side"

FROM PREVIOUS PAGE >

It's too early to say if it'll happen, but if Keanu is smart – which he can be! – then he'll try his best to keep any secret hidden. But it would be a great episode if the two of them had a face-off...

Is Keanu at all worried?

He's not paid too much attention to the repercussions of his actions yet. Love is blind, and you don't think about the consequences. He's so emotionally invested in Sharon, he's not thinking logically. Once he gets his head straight, he might start thinking differently.

Sharon and Keanu's relationship is in jeopardy this week, as Sharon receives a text from an unknown number, claiming to know their secret. While Keanu tries to reassure Sharon, it's clear that they've definitely been found out by someone – so will that someone go public? The paranoia soon becomes too much for Sharon – who feels she has no choice but to call it off with devastated Keanu...

How concerned are Keanu and Sharon about someone having found out about their affair?

At this point Sharon is highly worried, because she has a lot to lose – her family, her home... Phil is a dangerous man. Keanu is just as worried, and it's a big test for the two of them, of how much they care for each other.

Keanu must be pretty gutted when Sharon ends things...

He's been constantly confused because of the way she's hot and cold with him. He doesn't really know where he stands, or what she feels for him.

What's been the reaction from viewers about the storyline?

I haven't really looked on social media or anything, but hopefully they're enjoying Sharon and Keanu's fun side. Keanu sparks something in Sharon that we've not seen in a long time – Phil has kept her from having fun, I feel. We're also seeing a side of Keanu we've not seen before! So I think it's going well.

Have you been able to watch back their steamy scenes?

I try to watch those alone – as it's very awkward to watch with my parents or my partner! They know I'm playing a character, of course, but they also know not to wind me up because I don't take it too well [laughs]! I don't always watch my stuff because I'm my biggest critic. However, I catch up when I can.

You've had a big year this year – you won Best Newcomer in the NTAs – what difference has that made to you, day to day?

It's not changed me in the way that I'm still grafting away to create a story, develop the character – I was doing that before. It's an amazing feeling, so I'm just carrying on and enjoying it on a daily basis. It's a very lucky position to be in. There's not a day I don't wake up and realise how blessed I am to have won that award. It's very humbling.

What advice would you give to anyone starting on EastEnders?

Just enjoy it. It's a roller-coaster ride, and the EastEnders team is so professional, friendly and welcoming. If you work hard and put the time in, the enjoyment you have is amazing!

Allison Jones

How would Keanu rule the roost in Albert Square?

"If Keanu were King of Walford, he'd definitely pass a law that the rich must give to the poor - to make sure the Taylors had some money!"

"Sharon would be Keanu's Queen, of course. I don't need any explanation for that one! They'd be a powerful force, ruling together. But obviously Keanu's mum Karen would be trying to dictate what they do..."

"Everyone would have to wear overalls - Keanu already wears them all the time in the Arches, so he'd make them compulsory for everybody else!"

"Bronson could be Keanu's court jester – he's the he's the Taylors' family dog, after all.

He'd have to wear a little jester's hat!"

"Who would Keanu would put in the stocks? There's a list! Jagger and the gang, Phil Mitchell, and Keegan's dad, Mitch.

Keanu would get through 'em all!"

lunches and didn't think about Nick or the Street. They just wanted me to be Dad."

What changed is that outgoing Corrie boss Kate Oates offered Ben the chance to return on a more manageable schedule. It was a great opportunity for Ben to bring Nick back to Weatherfield to cause a stir.

"Being at home was hard – I came back to Corrie for a rest!" he jokes. "But seriously, Kate was amazing, and now I have a worklife balance. I didn't need to know the story she had in mind for Nick – I'm happy to say the lines, and see how it goes."

Given how furious the Platts are with him, Nick will have to hide the fact that the real motivation for his return isn't his family at all. The sole reason he's home is to see Leanne, and he has plans to win her back. But where has he been all this time?

"Nick's been running a restaurant in Nottingham, and he has another life – he's back because he loves Leanne, though," says Ben, cryptically. "This is Coronation Street, so it's complicated. Nick and Leanne have always loved each other, yet it gets harder in life when you grow older and kids are involved."

Given that he abandoned her with baby Oliver, it's hard to believe Leanne would give Nick the time of day. And he also has to win over his family, particularly David.

"We filmed some heartbreaking scenes yesterday, because David isn't just angry with Nick, he's really disappointed," explains Ben. "Nick wasn't there when David needed him, and after Nick finds out about the rape, it hurts. Then Nick's not very nice at all to Shona – they just don't get on and she's suspicious of him. He has a lot to find out, and Nick is going to be all about the family and defending them again!"

So, now that he's back, can Ben be tempted to stick around on the cobbles, no matter what soap life might throw at Nick?

"I'm happy to stay as long as they want me," he grins. "But I only think week to week. All of us know you're only as good as the story – no one is guaranteed to be here, so I don't take it for granted."

Will Carla fight for Nick?
She and Leanne hold a special place in his heart...

David isn't just angry with Nick – he's really disappointed

Nick is focussed on Leanne, but we all know how he felt about Carla, the one who broke his heart. We asked Ben to assess which of these formidable Weatherfield women is Nick's true love?

"They are both different, and Nick would be happy with either of them!" explains the actor. "Jane Danson [who plays Leanne] and Alison King [aka Carla] are both amazing, too. Nick gets something different from each of them." That's undoubtedly true – although would Ben admit that Nick's feelings for one are stronger than for the other?

"I let the story people decide that," laughs the star. "Carla and Nick are well-matched, but Leanne is his first love. The audience is 50-50 on this, too – they love Carla having a go at him, while they reckon that Leanne is strong but needs to be taken care of. I think Nick just wants a happy-ever-after!"

If the drama of this week's episode – in which outraged Zsa Zsa swoops into the hospital in a bid to track down troubled Dylan – is anything to go by, it seems unlikely that Sharon wouldn't be asked to return very soon. And she'd be more than happy to oblige...

"I love it at Casualty," she shares.
"I was so looking forward to seeing everyone again – they became such a family for me last time, and everyone treated me like their own.
I didn't watch my previous episode – I'm too critical of myself to watch anything that I do. I never watched Cagney & Lacey, either. It's how my mind computes!

"The audience was so generous, though," adds Sharon. "I don't understand a lot of social media stuff, though the BBC sent me all the comments that came in after my last Casualty episode went out. I was just astounded – what a treat!"

Viewers are set to be equally delighted by Zsa Zsa's presence this time around, since her opening scene involves a furious showdown with Connie, which Sharon had a great time filming – once she'd managed to brace herself, that is.

"I was nervous at first," says the Emmy and Golden Globe-winning star. "I could tell while rehearsing with Amanda Mealing [Connie] that I was up against a formidable character, and she was on her home ground. But I didn't want to let down Zsa Zsa, so I swallowed my nerve and went for it.

PARTNERS IN CRIME!

> Sharon loved teaming up with her close pal...

In the 1980s, Sharon was one half of a very popular crime-fighting duo in Cagney & Lacey, the US cop show which ran for seven series until 1988. Sharon starred as Sergeant Christine

Cagney, with her detective partner Mary Beth Lacey played by Tyne Daley - and the close friends were thrilled to present the prestigious Best Soap trophy together at this year's British Soap Awards... "We had such a good time," says Sharon. "My husband [TV producer Barney Rosenzweig] came with us - he's the man who put us together on Cagney & Lacey - and

"Tyne always writes the material for us, and she'd get so upset with me if I missed a word while we were rehearsing our

"Amanda was so flawless in her performance, and it was so much fun to do those scenes with her," continues Sharon. "We laughed about what a great match our two characters were, and it

The expert medic jets in after David contacts her to tell her that her former protege, Dylan, has gone missing – with the troubled alcoholic hitting the bottle following the bombshell that the baby his old friend Ciara recently lost was his.

Furious that Dylan's colleagues have allowed him to go AWOL, high-powered neurosurgeon Zsa Zsa is joined in her efforts to find him by her able assistant, Jeffers, and Dylan's concerned colleague, > David. And there's an emotional roller coaster in store for everyone involved...

"David and Zsa Zsa have a very funny relationship," reveals Sharon. "Even though the characters don't know each other, it's as if they do. David is aware of exactly who to call when Dylan's in trouble. It seems as though Zsa Zsa is the only one who can save him – and there's no way she's going to give up until she does!"

"Prior to Coronation Street, what's been your most memorable role?"

That's very easy. I was in a Radio 4 play called Lost And Found, written about Julie Hesmondhalgh's family life by her husband, Ian Kershaw. It was one of the best experiences of my life. I was the daughter of a character played by Sir Tom Courtenay, and he and I ended up writing to each other afterwards — he's wonderful. It was one of those jobs that you know is special.

"Would you like Abi to be in charge of organising a big social event for you?"

enjoys working with her cast

Absolutely not – under no circumstances would I want that woman near anything to do with my social life, quite frankly! I reckon I'd go to the Connors instead. Those women are so together and on it. I would have said Sal, if she weren't in prison. But the Connor ladies would definitely be all over it.

"What's the best thing about working so closely with Kate Ford [Tracy] and Simon Gregson [Steve]?"

They're the most beautiful, warmhearted, gorgeous, generous people you could ever wish to meet. I adore the pair of them. We laugh a lot – we laugh too much! In fact, it needs to stop... We had a scene in the taxi office just last week, and I got slightly hysterical for a good half an hour. You can't look Simon in the eye without laughing!

"Who inspired you to act?"

Well, I told Barbara Knox [aka Rita] this story when I met her – I remember the Rita and Alan Bradley storyline, being quite young and watching this woman perform, and I got goose pimples. I just knew I wanted to do what she did. She mesmerised me – she's an actual living legend, and I'm completely in awe of her. It's a privilege to work alongside her on the same job, I have to pinch myself! I think she's remarkable, and she was such a massive influence on me for becoming an actor.

"Did you expect Abi to return to the Street after her initial run?"

I was ever-hopeful, and when the call came through, I couldn't stop smiling. I rang my mum and dad, and they were delighted. After all the jobs I've done, this was the one where they said, "You've made it" - and they're kind of right! From the moment

I started on Corrie, I felt at home immediately. I've never been so comfortable in a job. I feel very grateful and lucky to be here.

"Is it correct that vou're a qualified reiki therapist, and do you still get time to practise?

I am a reiki therapist, although it's not something I do any more. It was something that, at the time, really helped me. I had vertigo, and a friend of mine did reiki and said it could help – and it did. So I learned how to do it myself.

"Abi's a really good mechanic have you managed to pick up any tips while playing her?"

I've learned nothing through playing a mechanic, but my dad's so practical and brilliant – and since I was small, he's taught me how to use a drill, put up shelves, change a tyre, all that kind of stuff. So I'm pretty handy actually!

"Who do you think makes the best match for Steve – Tracy or Abi?"

Abi! That's not a tricky question at all...

Abi's his soulmate, in my opinion! Steve likes a feisty woman, a troubled feisty soul who entertains him and keeps him interested. And I think there's a definite spark between Abi and Steve. I reckon that could

I sometimes call him Mr Pudding if he's feeling grand, but normally just Fig.

We can only imagine what Sheila would have to say about it all! But for now, Amy's previous relationship with his son is far from Gary's mind, as she's currently dating dishy doctor Rob! However, after Gary declared his feelings for Amy last week, it's given her food for thought about how she really feels. So imagine Gary's delight when Amy ditches the doc, and admits she wants to make a go of it with him!

"Gary gets the girl, to his great surprise!" chuckles Damien. "It was cute playing the stuff where he was madly in love with her, and she was totally oblivious. It was really fun to play! Especially with Zoe [Cramond, aka Amy], as she's such a beautiful actress."

After Amy finally decides that she can see a future with Gary, the pair of them share their first kiss. But things don't go to plan, as Amy's dad Paul catches them in the act, and is furious that his daughter has hooked up with his sworn enemy!

"Paul goes next level – he surprises even Gary with the extent to which he loses it!" cringes Damien. "When he sees them together he loses it, and gets quite violent. Sheila actually encourages Gary to report Paul to the police, as she doesn't want him to get away with treating her son like that!"

It's clear this new romance won't be plain sailing with Gary and Amy's families involved! And Damien admits there are choppy waters ahead for the pair already.

"There will be lots of drama, including the fact that Gary's borrowed 10 grand from Amy, which is not a great way to start a relationship!" he reminds us. "Would you lend that much money to a guy you've just started hooking up with? And the way he pays it back sees Gary end up in a less-than-reputable situation..."

Gary may not always be on the right side of the law, but his constant cock-ups are certainly fun for us to watch! And Damien shares that he has a real soft spot for his troubled alter ego...

"There's part of me that is Gary, though I'd like to think I'm a bit smarter than him!" he reckons. "It's not that he's malicious, but sometimes you think, 'How can you not see that this will end badly, mate?' There has to be a better way of doing things!"

HOLLYOAKS | Channel 4 THURSDAY

'Playing Kim has been incredible!'

Hollyoaks' Daisy Wood-Davis tells us why her alter ego is ready to leave the village...

fter four years in Hollyoaks, Kim makes a huge choice this week – she decides to leave for good! Star Daisy Wood-Davis, who plays Kim, tells us why the time is right for her to depart...

Hi, Daisy! You've already filmed your final scenes at Hollyoaks – how are you feeling about it all? It's really weird! It's been about a month since I left, and it already feels like a long time. I never expected to be there forever, but this is definitely the end of an era.

Why was now the right time for you – and Kim – to move on?

Kim's had some incredible storylines, and has been brilliantly unhinged!
But since her sister Lindsey died, she hasn't had any family – she's done really well surviving in the village for as long as she has!

She's worried that something is going on between Farrah and Grace this week. Why's that?

Kim sees some messages on Farrah's phone, and spots them talking. She's unaware that it's to do with getting rid of Glenn, she thinks it's romantic. But once she realises the truth, she's completely on board.

Does she become a WAG, then? Yes, she becomes a fully fledged WAG member! It was fun, as it gave me a chance to work with people I hadn't worked with much before.

We won't give away how Kim leaves, but Rick Astley does make a special appearance...

That's so funny! I think it's up to the audience to decide if it's real, or if it's just in Kim's head. It's such a funny thing for Kim to take away from the show, people tweet me about his songs all the time!

YOUR InsideSoap BRIEFING ON THE WOMAN BEHIND EASTENDERS' KAT...

Jessie Wallace was born as Karen Jane Wallace on 25 September 1971 to father James, a telecommunications engineer, and mother Annette, who was a secretary. Her parents divorced when Jessie was three years old, so she was raised by her dad, and saw her mum at weekends. She grew up in north London and has two sisters, Danielle and Joanne. Jessie adopted her stage name after her grandmother.

During her acting career, Jessie has worked in a fair few places – and not just in the UK! In 2007, she flew to Johannesburg to film ITV's Sunday night drama Wild At Heart. She played high-maintenance Amy Kriel, who found it hard to fit into life in South Africa until she met Sarah Travanion (Amanda Holden). By the end of her trip, Amy finally managed to swap her fashion statements for some more practical combat trousers!

At the age of 21,
Jessie moved to Portugal, working in bars for just over six months.

When she returned to the UK, she trained as a make-up artist at the College of North East London. Later, Jessie worked at the Royal Shakespeare Company for two years, where she met actor – and future Game Of Thrones star – lain Glen, who helped her to apply for drama school.

Jessie joined the cast of EastEnders in 2000, as Kat arrived in Walford with her dad, Charlie Slater, and her sisters, Lynne, Little Mo and Zoe, and their grandmother, Mo Harris.

The nation was soon gripped when Kat revealed Zoe was not her sister, but her daughter! The arrival of Alfie Moon (Shane Richie) in 2002 created one of the show's most popular couples ever. Alfie and Kat left the Square in 2005, coming back in 2010, but departing once more in 2015. Jessie returned earlier this year.

Jessie has also made a name for herself over in Weatherfield! She played Corrie legend Pat Phoenix (aka Elsie Tanner) in BBC4's 2010 TV film The Road To Coronation Street, which told the story of the early days of the successful soap, and Jessie received great acclaim for her performance. Jessie's other work has included one-off drama The Dinner Party, alongside Lee Evans and Alison Steadman.

After leaving EastEnders in 2015, Jessie and Shane filmed a spin-off show, Kat & Alfie: Redwater. Set in Ireland, the drama followed the Walford characters as they searched for Kat's long-lost son. At the very end of the six-part series, both Kat and Alfie

were in deadly danger... but their subsequent appearances in EastEnders seem to suggest that the pair survived! Sadly, the show was not renewed for a second series, but Jessie confessed she wasn't too disappointed, saying, "When it ended, I just wanted to come back to EastEnders!"

Jessie Wallace met policeman Dave Morgan in 2003 – the two dated and were engaged, before calling it off in 2004. The pair have a daughter together, Tallulah Lilac, now 13 years old. "We're best mates," says Jessie of her girl. "She comes out with hilarious things – she's so observant, so clever."

Mason, appeared on documentary My Big Fat Gypsy Wedding in 2012, after marrying cage-fighter Tony Giles. Danielle and Tony have two children together, Rudy and Delilah, but the couple split in 2016 after the traveller lifestyle of being a full-time mum and housekeeper became too much. Earlier in 2018, it was rumoured that the pair reconciled.

icky Duffy has always prided herself on being a loving and devoted parent who'd do anything for her children, Lily and Max. But in this new three-part series, she finds herself unsure about how best to support Max, who has identified as a girl from a young age and has been allowed to express those feelings at home, but now wants to do so in public.

"I think she doesn't know how to be supportive – she learns how to be," explains Anna Friel, who plays Vicky. "You can clearly see she loves Max very much. Something that was interesting was the fact that a mother has to grieve her son. She has to say goodbye to Max, and hello to Maxine."

Matters are made more complicated by the fact that Vicky and her husband Stephen are separated, due to his struggle to accept Max's gender non-conformity. In a bid to make a united show of support for their child, Stephen moves back into the family home, but he still feels that their child might just be 'going through a phase', and Vicky is hesitant about where they stand with each other.

"I think she has always loved her husband, and wishes that he could be more supportive," sighs Anna. "Yet he just doesn't have that ability, and she wants to protect her child at any cost."

Anna admits that she wasn't particularly well-informed about transgender issues before signing up for the part, but she threw herself into the research – and was surprised by what she learned...

"I didn't know about puberty blockers or halting puberty," she shares. "And I didn't know how hard it was for the parents. I also didn't know that there is this wonderful charity called Mermaids – it's tremendous."

As well as starring in the drama, Anna had a co-producer role. She tells us how she felt a responsibility to the actors who auditioned to play Max.

"We saw six extraordinary children," recalls the actress. "It's difficult to be on the other side because you know how it feels. I went out and met the parents of each child and said, 'I'm going to look after them!' It was really tough, but Callum [Booth-Ford, who plays Max] had a really solid confidence."

Way back in her Brookside days, Anna was part of a groundbreaking storyline

IF PEOPLE'S ATTITUDES CHANGE BECAUSE OF THIS, THAT'S GREAT"

when her character, Beth Jordache, kissed her friend Margaret in the first pre-watershed lesbian kiss on UK TV. Now, she hopes Butterfly can similarly increase awareness.

"We didn't go out to shock – it was just a story, and people's views changed because of it," recalls Anna. "If this can shine a light in the same way, that's great."

Youch POTATO

Actor Ste Johnston picks his dream viewing...

I know I'm very behind, but I've just started Game Of Thrones, and I think it's great. I had started it once before, and got a bit confused by it! That's the problem with drama serials, everyone's giving you all these recommendations, and you're like, "This is going to take months!"

I thought Three Girls had really strong storytelling. But I had to watch it one episode a week – I couldn't watch it one after the other because it was so hard-hitting. But I think it's exciting that TV is willing to push the boundaries now, because dramas are getting more interesting to watch.

I love watching old comedies on Gold. I was brought up on old-school stuff like Morecambe And Wise, and lately I've been watching Hi-de-Hi! and Are You Being Served?. John Inman and Mollie Sugden's comic timing is phenomenal.

Let's go on my Sky planner and see what I've got on there... Cruising With Jane McDonald – I got to work with her last year, she's brilliant. I've also got RuPaul's Drag Race and The Real Marigold Hotel, and I love 24 Hours In Police Custody. That's something we used to watch for "research"!

P'd have loved to have been in Benidorm before that finished, or to be in This Country. Or Corrie – as a northerner, you've got to do Corrie! I think when Coronation Street does the comedy stuff it does it so well. I always notice whenever Jonathan Harvey or Damon Rochefort have written an episode because theirs are always really funny!

hen Raza Shar is arrested for drug possession, it occurs to the Counter-Terrorism Special Unit that this young, savvy secondgeneration British-Pakistani man could be very useful to them. So, DS Gabe Waters sets about making Raza an informant - and if he has to make life difficult for Raza's family to do that, well, that's just a part of the process. But this new role puts Raza in a complicated position that calls his loyalties into question. Paddy Considine (Gabe) and Nabhaan Rizwan (Raza) reveal more...

How would you describe Gabe and Raza?

Paddy Gabe's very secretive and covert. He has worked undercover for many years, and that's left a scar on his psyche. He carries around the weight of his work, and is always running away from things about himself.

Nabhaan Raza is a young, sharp-witted dude from east London. He works in a factory, but is aware of 'the system'. He's also close to his mum, Sadia, and his brother, Nasir, who Raza sees as a younger version of himself. Raza wants Nasir to embrace the opportunities he didn't have.

What's Gabe and Raza's relationship like?

Paddy There are rules about how to operate with informers: you have to remember there is a professional relationship, but sometimes it can teeter into the personal. That starts to happen with Gabe and Raza. Gabe starts to respect this young kid when he sees t's easy to see why so many people want to be a club rep: getting paid to be in the sun and party with good-looking people is an attractive concept. But it's not that easy, as we'll see in this new series where two teams of reps compete for a chance to impress big boss BJ and land a job working a season on the Greek island of Zante.

"There have been shows about repping before where people have thought, 'Oh, it's just a holiday where you get drunk and look after one group of guests'," says BJ. "My aim was to show people that there's more to repping. There are late nights and early mornings, tough targets and rules. There's a lot of working amongst the fun!"

Each team starts with three experienced reps, and each episode, they're joined by a rookie. They take turns to work with the newcomer, who'll then decide which team they want to join. "They do everything that's covered by my staff in summer," shares BJ. "Ticket-selling, hostessing and running VIP in the club – it's a real mix. There are great jobs, and other jobs where they have to dress as a piece of toast!"

ANGELLICA BELL AND TOMMY BANKS TAKE OVER THE FAMILY FOOD COMPETITION...

he show formerly known as *The Big Family Cooking*Showdown returns to our screens this week, and it's under new management.

Now hosted by Celebrity MasterChef winner Angellica Bell and Tommy Banks – the youngest-ever chef to receive a Michelin star – they'll be judging, too. We called up Angellica and Tommy to find out what we can expect from this refreshed series...

What can you tell us about the new format of the show? Angellica We're celebrating the fact that a lot of people love cooking at home with their families, and are really proud of what they do. So series two is an extension of that. We've changed the name a little bit, and we're stripping it over three weeks so people can really buy into the families. Tommy It gets quite serious with the food, but it's also really fun to meet all these characters, and amazing to see the relationships you get between three people.

How did the two of you find working together?

Angellica Tommy's hilarious, and he really cares about food – plus we could bounce off each other about the different foods we like. He obviously does more high-end cooking, and I'm more a home cook, but we're kind of coming from the same place because we both taught ourselves.

Tommy This was my first time presenting, so I was nervous, but Angellica was lovely. She looked after me and showed me some tricks of the trade!

Does having families working together mean bickering among the teams?

Tommy Naturally! Families bicker, don't they? I work with itcoms about families are nothing new, but this five-part series offers a perspective we definitely haven't seen before...

FAMILY FORTUNES

DAVID TENNANT AND JESSICA HYNES STAR IN A NEW FAMILY COMEDY WITH A DIFFERENCE...

Writer Shaun Pye based There She Goes on the story of his own family, in particular his daughter, born with a rare and as-yet-undiagnosed chromosomal disorder. In this slightly fictionalised version, David Tennant and Jessica Hynes star as Simon and Emily, parents to their learningdisabled daughter Rosie and her older brother Ben.

"I'd never read anything that seemed so honest, and that had this raw perspective of this particular life with a daughter who has these challenges," shares David. "It's so candid. I knew Shaun a bit, but had no idea that this was his life. And when I read that first script, my family every single day - we run a restaurant together - so I'm fully aware of what it's like! It was interesting to just stand back and see it. Angellica Food would go wrong, tempers would fray, then things would go wrong even more. I just wanted to go in and say, "Just relax!" But there were times where you definitely didn't want to get involved in any arguments!

I thought, 'This is a story that needs to be told'."

"This is about a very specific experience of parenthood," adds Jessica. "But what I found as I was doing it was how relatable the emotions were to me, despite not having had the same experience as Shaun and his wife. I understood that parenting had affected them profoundly, as it did me - it's a kind of wearing down. There's something amazing about having your spirit broken totally by children! I'd never seen anything written so honestly about that particular aspect of parenting before."

hen this year's Springwatch marked the end of the 'Watches stay at Sherborne Park, we were keen to see where the show would head to next - but we never expected this. This series is going all the way to Squam Lake in New Hampshire, USA – and the team of Chris Packham, Michaela Strachan and Gillian Burke is very excited!

"This will offer us an opportunity to look at parallels between what's happening here, and some contrasts," shares Chris. "There's a lot of difference in migration, because in that part of the world it's down through a continent. What we see, as part of a set of islands, is animals moving here as it's warmer. Some of the movements in New England are astonishing."

"Chris and I are going leaf-peeping, driving round iconic sites in New England," enthuses Michaela. "I'm the one who likes the bold and flashy, so I'm looking forward to the colours of the fall. In the UK we get gorgeous autumnal colours, but in America they're much richer - all those reds and purples." There's one other factor beyond the flora and fauna that's set to make this a unique experience for the team - they'll be broadcasting live > as usual, but due to New Hampshire being five hours behind the UK, things will look rather different...

"We'll be broadcasting in daylight," grins Gillian. "That will be really exciting - we'll be able to see things!"

In that instant, Moonlight became the first Best Picture winner with an all-black cast.

It was a historic moment, but one that had been a very long time coming, as this series explores. In tonight's episode, actors Harry Belafonte, Earl Cameron and Diahann Carroll speak openly and frankly about the times when Hollywood had far fewer opportunities for black actors, and when interracial romances were never shown.

Rome's Colosseum remains one of the city's biggest landmarks and most popular tourist attractions - and having stood for nearly 2,000 years, it has lots of stories to tell. This documentary explores how the Roman authorities were initially reluctant to build a huge home for the gladitorial games, primarily due to fears over what would happen with so many excitable spectators contained in one space. In the end, the demand became too great to ignore, and a stadium was built to host 50,000 people - but also became a symbol of Rome's dark heart, somewhere lives were ended for sport.

Following the news that Mrs O is no longer part of the live shows - and, no, it's nothing to do with the US radio show chat in which she branded Simon Cowell a pain in the proverbial, honest – The X Factor remains unstoppable and charges ahead with the Judges' Houses round. And yes, we know they aren't really the judges' houses, but given we now have a married couple on the panel for the first time, surely Robbie and Ayda should be taking their categories to the same abode?

As ever, the judges are helped in their decision-making by a team of special guests, including former champion Leona Lewis, and American Idol runner-up and part-time Queen frontman Adam Lambert. Bismillah!

Brad. Is. Back, all right! And he's proffering posers in this celeb special of the quiz show to Coronation Street's Simon Gregson, Victoria Ekanoye, Lucy Fallon and Andrew Whyment, who are hoping to win big. And in the name of charidee, maybe the questions will be a little on the easier side although given that not so long back, one teaser asked, 'Which zone on The Crystal Maze looks like a castle: Ocean, Aztec or Medieval?', we're sure tonight's episode will still be an intellectually challenging watch. Oh, and the biggest question of all... which Chaser will the Corrie crew face?

If you've ever wanted to see Mrs Brown without her pinny and stockings - wait, that sounded really wrong. Let's try that again, shall we? Okay: Mrs Brown's Boys star Brendan O'Carroll swaps Agnes' pinny and stockings for a blazer and some slacks, as the host of this new panel quiz show about extraordinary facts.

Serving as team captains are Paddy Houlihan, (Mrs Brown's on-screen son) and Danny O'Carroll, Brendan's real-life son, which will hopefully get slightly less confusing later in the show's run. Unlike other panel shows, the contestants here are picked from the audience, The Price Is Rightstyle – but the captains can substitute them with another audience member at any time.

We were a little thrown by the no-frills approach to this comedy clip show when it first began a couple of years ago, but we've taken to looking upon it as the comic equivalent of a 'greatest hits' album - and without that dodgy bit at the end where they force a couple of tracks of new material on you. As the third series kicks off tonight, we'll be returning to the Phoenix Club for the ill-fated talent night, and elsewhere Max and Paddy have a run-in with a cow. That's not the only farmyard animal making an appearance tonight, either - look out for the one and only Peppa Pig...

The Chief and his elite crew of hunters return for a second star-studded helping of the reality show, where eight celebs attempt to evade capture for a fortnight. We don't know about you, but we couldn't manage 14 days without venturing to the corner shop for a Kit Kat, never mind no Wi-Fi and having to don a shonky fake beard and 'tache to divert attention.

Saying that, the glitz has been turned up to 11 for this series, with the fugitives including comedian Dom Joly, Vicky Pattison and Strictly's AJ Pritchard - escaping from their starting point by motorbike, high-speed boat and sports car. It's all very James Bond - although we're not putting any money on Dom Joly as the next 007 just yet...

We're loving the ever-changing themes for this series of GBBO (and no, we're not referring to Noel's hair), and this week is no exception. Say 'Hej' to Danish Week, in which the remaining bakers are tasked with designing and producing a fancy pastry Showstopper fit for a Danish birthday party. (Hang on, is Sandi celebrating something...?) Then there's the Signature – a style and substance bread challenge - and a 'spherical' Technical, which hopefully won't be a load of balls for the contestants as there's a place in the semifinal at stake tonight. On your Denmarks... Get set... Bake!

As a programme maker, you have to be pretty confident with the entertainment value of your product to call it How To Get A Good Night's Sleep, don't you? Because otherwise you run the risk of smart-alec TV critics going "just watch this, lol". Fortunately, this twopart series is hosted by Eamonn Holmes and Ruth Langsford, who always bring a spark to everything they present together.

Like a lot of us, both Eamonn and Ruth have sleeping problems: Eamonn gets around four hours a night, and Ruth snores. So they're on a mission to see what can be done about it, which means road-testing Britain's most expensive beds, trying a 'snoring workout' in a gym, and taking part in an anti-insomia programme.

THE APPRENTICE | BBC1 9PM

Lord Sugar announces to the remaining candidates that a big new trend is "fashionable doughnuts" - and, honestly, if your mind didn't fill with jokes at the expense of everyone on this show as soon as you read that, then you're a far better person than we are. Anyway, Lord Sugar decides to mix up the teams this week, which means we finally get proper team names (Typhoon and Collaborative, with "Impetus" being rejected for sounding too much like "impotence"), and then it's on with the business of making some dough. But which team's plan will turn out to have a hole in the middle?

Siren calls

The BAFTA award-winning documentary returns for a fourth run, and after following the West Midlands Ambulance Service for two series, there's a slight geographic shift as we join the North West Ambulance Service this time. We happen to drop in at a particularly busy time, as tonight's opening episode takes place during the Parklife festival in Manchester. which means lots of partygoers descending upon the city and some of them getting a bit too carried away.

There's a particularly emotive case for advanced paramedic Gari when he's called out to a cardiac arrest, while another call-out gets an unexpected assist when a passer-by turns out to know the patient in the back of the ambulance.

We love the diversity of jobs on offer in this series, but we have to admit that we have a serious soft spot for the ones that require people with flamboyant personalities, so imagine our delight when we read that tonight's episode features a search for a panto dame. Those vying for that particular role include seasoned dame Tony, and Robin, whose wife kindly comes along to help with his make-up.

Another excellent opportunity on offer tonight is a backstage interviewing role at the MOBO Awards, and the candidates are given a surprise test when they're asked to interview TV presenter and former JLS singer Marvin Humes. Some rise to the occasion, but others, unfortunately, do not.

The more we see of this series, the more convinced we become that Rob Bell gets to his destinations faster by walking along the rail lines than we do by catching actual trains. And he never has to worry whether his Super Special Off-Peak Return is valid on the 15.46 from Leeds or not. Anyway, tonight Rob's hiking along the defunct Somerset-and-Dorset line, where he'll be discovering how this particular stretch of land proved financially ruinous to the investors who funded it, and checks out some of the haunting sights that remain, like the grand viaducts that have since been overtaken by nature.

IN and OUT

We spin soap's revolving door...

JAKE RYAN (Ryan 'Robbo' Shaw, Home and Away)

Jake is taking a short break from Summer Bay, as he's landed a part in a major movie. The Sam Kellydirected flick, Savage, has been inspired by real-life stories of New Zealand's street gangs during the 1960s, 70s and 80s. Robbo fans needn't panic, though – he'll be back on screen next year. Soon

SHANE RICHIE (Alfie Moon, EastEnders) As Hayley enters the last month of her pregnancy, what of the baby's father, Alfie? Of course, the fella is living in ignorance, thinking that Hayley had a termination not long after he briefly met up with her in May. However, with Jean believing she's worked out Hayley's secret, will she be the one to summon Alfie back to Walford? And what reception will

he get from Kat? Winter

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT THE BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

There just wasn't enough of Keanu to go round this week.

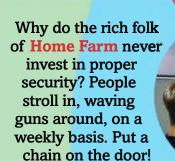

We may be reading too much into this, but we're picking up on subtle clues that Coronation Street is sponsored by the Co-Op.

No one in soap has bad luck like Ryan from Corrie. Things went wrong from birth, when he was swapped with the boy in the next crib! This week, actor Rvan Prescott was brilliant at playing his character's disbelief as he was hit by calamity after calamity. But out of all of Ryan's bad luck, the worst must be that he needed Sophie to lie to the police – just after she'd started going out with a top solicitor! What are the chances?

It's been a long time coming, gents. Hurrah! (Now try not to screw it up this time - for all our sanity!)

Hmm... We wonder how Eileen feels about Liz and Jim getting back together?

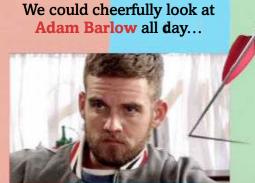

Does anyone else think that Shirley and Ritchie would make a perfect couple?

Baby Seb has the perfect 'Don't even think about giving me any of your rubbish' face. You do not want to mess with him.

...although we could, maybe, take an hour off to look at Dr Ali instead.

claims he is deep undercover... But how deep exactly? So deep that his face had to be reconstructed after escaping a fireball car crash?

The search for Kirk's fabled 'Manchester Big Cat' was fun, but for one major disappointment... There was no big cat! It's not too late, Corrie!
